

Talking points for Barbara O'Connor:

- The primary sources of news for citizens at times of crisis.
- How people use and process critical information.
- The role the emergency broadcasting system might play and what role the state Web site could play.
- The legal constraints on broadcasters as a part of their license obligations relative to emergency information.